FOREWORD

The Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills (GRADS) Content Standards are the curricular framework for programs serving pregnant and parenting students. This document reflects the knowledge and skills recommended by health, business and educational professionals as essential to successful college and career preparation, healthy pregnancy and appropriate parenting.

This document represents a collaborative effort of the following professional partners: the Ohio Department of Education's Office of Career-Technical Education, the Northwest Ohio College Tech Prep Consortium at the University of Toledo and health, business and educational professionals across Ohio. Secondary and postsecondary educators also participated in the development of the curricular content standards.

The document delineates competencies that outline the knowledge and skills needed for family, education and career success in a complex and ever-changing society. It includes a) competencies that are essential to healthy career, family and personal relationships; b) career and education preparation competencies essential to life-long learning; c) financial literacy competencies essential to efficient fiscal management and consumerism; and, d) prenatal, neonatal and parenting competencies essential to a healthy pregnancy and the nurturing of a child.

The utilization of this document forms the basis for the development of an integrated delivery system that provides opportunities for pregnant and parenting students to successfully complete secondary education and pursue a career or postsecondary education. It is hoped that the document will enhance and expand the lives of young families in a complex global society.

The document is available through the Ohio Department of Education's Office of Career-Technical Education, Web at: www.education.ohio.gov.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

A number of individuals contributed their time and expertise to this development. Special thanks go to all the business representatives and educators named in this document.

Further acknowledgement is due to:

- Kathy Shibley, Director, Office of Career-Technical Education, Ohio Department of Education;
- Rick Mangini, Associate Director, Office of Career-Technical Education, Ohio Department of Education;
- Leslie Brady, Assistant Director, Office of Career-Technical Education, Ohio Department of Education;

Those listed above provided vision and implementation support for the Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills Content Standards and Ohio's educational programs.

Also, special thanks are due to the following professional partners of this project:

- James Piper, Consultant, Greater Northwest Ohio College Tech Prep, University of Toledo;
- Mary Jo Kohl, Consultant, Office of Career-Technical Education, Ohio Department of Education;
- Cindy McKay, Executive Director, United Services for Effective Parenting – Ohio; and
- Mary Kurt, Consultant, Greater Northwest Ohio College Tech Prep, University of Toledo;

The people listed above contributed significant research, subject matter, writing and facilitation expertise to the development of the Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills Content Standards document.

DEVELOPMENT OF GRADUATION, REALITY AND DUAL-ROLE SKILLS CONTENT STANDARDS

The process for the development of the Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills Content Standards began in November 2009 with an extensive research review and investigation of contributing organizations and agencies, and culminated in 2010 with the work of business representatives and educational professionals focusing on academic correlation. Over the course of development, numerous business representatives as well as secondary and postsecondary educators from across the state of Ohio took part in the formal development process. The following summarizes the various stages of the development process.

Futuring Panel

February 26, 2010

The Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills Futuring Panel brought together key professional representatives from across the state to advise the Ohio Department of Education on future trends impacting pregnant and parenting students and to suggest ways in which those trends could be incorporated into a Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills Content Standards document. Drawn from various sectors and regions of the state, the panel members possessed multiple experiences and expertise working with, supporting and serving the needs of pregnant and parenting students. Drawing from those experiences and expertise the Futuring Panel identified what pregnant and parenting students should know and be able to do to enhance their lives and the lives of their children.

Business Review Panel

March 4, 2010

This panel was composed of Ohio business, education and training representatives from across Ohio. Similar to the previous panel these individuals also were drawn from various sectors and regions of the state and possessed multiple experiences and expertise working with, supporting and serving the needs of pregnant and parenting students. The panel reviewed the work outlined by the Futuring Panel and formulated suggestions for additions, deletions and editorial changes to the draft document. The inclusion of these individuals formed a collaborative support base that brought together organizations, agencies and educational institutions that share common goals.

Educator Review Panel

March 17, 2010

The educator panel was comprised of GRADS teachers, coordinator and supervisors representing various districts and regions of the state. Utilizing an elluminate session the panel, after previously reviewing the document, discussed and edited the work provided by the Business Panel. Given no major conflicts or confusion with the work of the Futuring or Business Panels this became the final stage to determining what pregnant and parenting students should know and be able to do to enhance their lives and the lives of their children.

PHILOSOPHY AND PRINCIPLES FOR IMPLEMENTATION

The overarching framework for Ohio career-technical education is outlined in the Ohio Revised Code and subsequent administrative rules, which specify Family and Consumer Sciences Programs serve students in grades seven through twelve and focus on individuals, families, work and their interrelationships. Encompassed within Family and Consumer Sciences, Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills Programs serve pregnant and parenting students in grades seven through twelve, providing educational programming with academic intervention and community outreach. To view the full text of Administrative Rule 3301-61-04 (Criteria for Family and Consumer Science Programs), go to www.education.ohio.gov and keyword search: CTE Administrative Rules Update.

Mission and Goals

The Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills program mission is to promote personal growth, educational competence and economic self-sufficiency as socially responsible members of society.

The program goals are to:

- Prepare participants for postsecondary education and/or the world of work;
- Encourage participants to set goals toward work and family;
- Increase the likelihood that participants will remain in school during pregnancy and after the birth of their child, and stay to the point of graduation;
- Help participants carry out positive health care practices for themselves and their children in both prenatal and postnatal stages;
- Provide participants with knowledge and skills related to child development and positive parenting practices; and,
- Delay subsequent pregnancies.

History

In the late 1970s educational leadership placed an added focus on high school dropouts. It was determined that pregnant and parenting students made up a large percentage of the student population at risk of dropping out of school before completing Grade 12. Title IX (education amendments of 1972) prohibited schools from expelling teens who were pregnant and/or had children. Hence, Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills (GRADS) began in 1980 with three pilot programs in Ohio. As the program grew and reported success in Ohio, other states adopted the model.

STRUCTURE AND FORMAT

The Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills Professional Content Standards document is composed of a series of units, competencies and descriptors:

- units are a grouping of competencies sharing a common subject or theme;
- competencies are specific knowledge and skill statements that outline the knowledge and skills needed for success; and
- descriptors follow each competency and serve to define what is meant by the related competency.

The GRADS competencies focus on:

- Relationships;
- College and Career Ready Knowledge and Skills;
- Economic Independence;
- Healthy Prenatal and Neonatal Care; and,
- Nurturing Healthy Children and Establishing Healthy Families;

In the Graduation, Reality And Dual-role Skills Content Standards, education/business representatives have designated competencies as essential or recommended. The expectation is for essential competencies to be a mandatory part of the GRADS curriculum, while the recommended competencies, although important, are left to the instructors discretion in terms of time and immediate needs. Definitions used to make these designations appear on the following page, followed by a sample competency illustrating the layout of an actual competency.

In addition to the content standards, resource sections have been added to support and enhance the delivery of the content standards. An annotated bibliography of books, articles and online resources on GRADS related subjects; agencies and government offices that provide information and services to pregnant and parenting students; GRADS resources listed by the corresponding content standard unit; and a listing of web quests GRADS teachers can use to augment pregnant and parenting student's education can be found following the units, competencies and descriptors.

DEFINITIONS AND CODES

Determined by Education and Business (EDU/BUS) Panels

Essential:

Competency is needed to ensure minimal level of understanding and ability. Pregnant and/or parenting students should be able to perform this competency.
